OVERVIEW:

This webinar will explore best practices in workplace violence prevention. The presenter will cover the must-have components that should be incorporated in every organization's workplace violence prevention strategy, as well as the necessary training needed for staff.

OBJECTIVES:

- Identify effective components of a workplace violence strategy; and
- Review appropriate training to combat workplace violence.

MEET YOUR FACULTY:

Mike Dunning, Principal Consultant
The Healthcare Security Consulting Group, LLC

Mike Dunning, who believes healthcare can be provided in safe environments without staff fearing for their safety, is the Principal Consultant at The Healthcare Security Consulting Group, LLC. Previously, he was the Vice President of Healthcare Operations for the world's largest security services company, where he served as the subject-matter expert for healthcare security operations, providing oversight for the security programs in more than 800 hospitals and 4,000 healthcare facilities across the U.S. and Canada. In addition, he has served as the Director of Security and Emergency Management for two Level 1 trauma systems. He also served in the U.S. Air Force, providing executive protection for the Supreme Allied Commander of Europe and the U.S. Secretary of Defense.

Dunning is a recognized security and emergency management expert with board certifications from the International Association for Healthcare Security and Safety, the Medical College of Georgia, and the International Association for Emergency Managers. He holds an associate degree in law enforcement from The Community College of the Air Force, a BA in Psychology from the University of Maryland, and an MA in Emergency Management from Jacksonville State University.

Dunning is a published author, with his most recent book, Workplace Violence in Healthcare: An Evidenced-Based, Holistic Approach to Reducing Workplace Violence, receiving wide acclaim. He has been the guest speaker at numerous events across the nation, presenting on topics including preventing workplace violence, bettering security and safety programs, and preparing security programs for accreditation.
